In Mid-January 2017, Self Employment in the Arts (SEA) hosted this webinar in partnership with Future Founders and the Collegiate Entrepreneurs Organization (CEO) to help young entrepreneurs better pitch their business. All three organizations host elevator and business pitch competitions throughout the year where student entrepreneurs can present their ideas and active businesses for a chance at prize money and additional help and resources.

The webinar covers the basics of a business pitch, why theyâ€™re important, tips and advice, judging criteria, and more from the panel of experts. Questions were also asked by webinar attendees and answered in the hour-long webinar.

Webinar presenters include:

Description

Michael Luchies, TrepRep Founder
Josh Doering, Seed Slide Founder
James Zebrowski, CEO Managing Director
Stacey Earnest, Ace Metal Refinishers CEO
Ethan Adams, Future Founders Manager of Startup Development

SEA is a program geared towards helping emerging visual, performing, literary, and media artists gain the resources and connections they need to be successful self-employed artists. Our annual conference is traditionally the last weekend in February in Lisle (Chicago suburb), Illinois. For more information on Self Employment in the Arts, visit SelfEmploymentInTheArts.com.
